Practise this dialogue with a classmate.

Daniel, what are these pliers for?

We're doing a school project on electricity.

And why do you need a pair of scissors?

To cut this cable cord. It's all very safe.

Well, remember your father dear.

I just follow my teacher's instructions.

What's that? It's suddenly dark in here.

I have a torch. The street lighting is out too.

Where's your dad? What's he doing?

He was digging a hole in the front garden.

Digging? Has he lost his mind?

How cool! A power outage in our own street!

You shouldn't be proud of him.

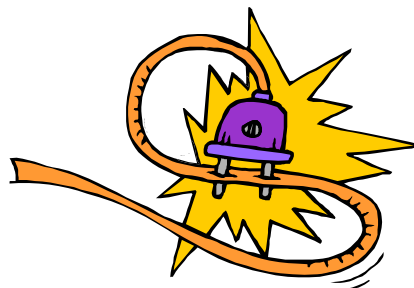

But he really knows how to cause problems.

Ask a classmate the following questions.

- 1 Are you a handy person?
No, I'm not. / Yes, I am. I can fix anything.
- 2 Do you have a torch?
No, I don't. / Yes, I do. It's under my pillow.
- 3 What do you know about electricity?
Nothing at all. / I know that it's really dangerous.
- 4 What would you do if all the lights went out?
I would try to stay calm and to find some candles.
- 5 Do you think a power outage is cool?
No, I don't. It would cause a lot of trouble. / Yes, I do.
- 6 What would life be without electricity?
It would be very difficult. No lighting/TV/dishwasher.
- 7 Do you use laptops and tablets at school?
Yes, we do. We use them almost every day.
- 8 How deep are power lines buried in the ground?
I don't know. They are usually buried 60 cm in the ground.
